

Interior Redesign FAQs

Q. What is the process for a Redesign?

A. At the outset we meet for a redesign consultation and to determine a date for the redesign session. This can be a full day or half day session, dependant on your needs. On the day of the redesign, we place all the furniture, art and accessories to create a space that accurately reflects you and your family. A space that is beautiful as well as functional.

Q. Why would I hire a Redesigner rather than an Interior Designer or an Interior Decorator?

There is an overlap between these fields. An Interior Designer is an expert at redoing your entire home, kitchen or bathroom, and can design an addition to your home as well as is licensed and works with city codes. An Interior Decorator works with purchasing soft furnishings for your home such as window coverings, and linens for example. An Interior Redesigner is trained to work with what you have already in your own home and works to ensure that your furnishings, accessories and art are highlighted and that your home is functional for the people who live there.

Q. What if I don't like my Redesign?

A. Redesigners work with the furniture, art and accessories you already own and so are not imposing their sense of style or colour. A professional redesigner will take what you have to showcase your personality and style. If you are unhappy, we will work with you until you are satisfied.
